Brujo Pirujo also wants to take a siesta so he walks through the woods, looking for somewhere comfortable to have a rest. Will he find a place to sleep? This book offers a space for fantasy, a colourful dream world in which our little Jaime learn through the experiences he encounters. It's a book that sure to appeal to very young children, one that shows that getting what we want requires effort, tenacity and travelling along a road that won't always be easy. And, even when the difficulties are overcome, there is another question: 'has our tree always been there, waiting for us? Or did we make it possible, by searching for it? Doubtless someone as magic as Brujo Pirujo will be able to help us find answers.
